180 Bushels Corn From Acre In 12 Months 'Aint Hay'

Birds and Bud Worms As Well As Proper Drying Are Important

One acre of land at the Everglades Experiment Station has produced a measured 180 bushels of corn during the twelve months since the crop was planted. Corn planted September 1 last, yielded 78 bushels in January. The land was then plowed, disked twice and planted March 1. This planting yielded 102 bushels.

These excellent yields have been obtained with a new variety known as "Big Joe," which was obtained by crossing a Puerto Rican variety "Mayobella" with Florida 690, and also with white and yellow corn. The Mayobella variety was created by crossing several of the highest yielding strains from isolated sections of Puerto Rico. The variety is not constant as to type and color. In some it tends to be yellow, in others it is white. Considerable confidence is justified in its ability to withstand the weather extremes of this area, since this variety has yielded well in an extremely wet season, and in one where the weather was very dry. During the spring of 1943, one rain totalled twenty-four inches, this variety yielded 73 bushels; in the following dry fall, 78 bushels.

Although the corn has been planted in the past in rows 30 inches apart, the other methods of planting are being investigated. If corn is to be grown in the Everglades, plantings will have to be adapted to the machinery now in use in the field for planting, culturing, harvesting and storing. The yields described above were obtained with 600 pounds of

Kok-saghyz or Rubber Plant Has Very High Yield Grown Here

By Roy A. Bair

Tess conducted by the Everglades Experiment Station with the Russian dandelion, Kok-saghyz, will produce more high quality rubber per acre and do it more quickly than any other plant yet tested in this country. Moreover, Kok-saghyz yields more rubber in the Everglades than it does anywhere else in the United States, or even in Russia, where a substantial portion of tire production is from Kok-saghyz rubber.

These facts plus the discovery by the Rubber company that at 100 bushels per acre of natural rubber must be incorporated with any of the synthetic rubbers now known, in order to obtain a durable tire, have led to more extensive tests this season by the Bureau of Plant Industry.

Beginning in the Spring of 1942, an acre of Kok-saghyz was grown at the Experiment Station at Belle Glade. This planting showed that Kok-saghyz is adapted to the sawgrass land, the fields, the Experiment Station the packing houses, cane fields, the Lake Wales-Dyke and other points of interest.

Planning For Peace

A committee on Utilization of War Plants and Surplus Property has been formed under the chairmanship of Albert C. Mattei of San Francisco. On the committee are 25 or more business men from all classes of industry and all sections of the country. They will study how to best utilize or dispose of surplus war plants and supplies. On their analysis and recommendations will largely rest the future industrial program of this nation.

Business men have been invited to bring phases of the problems that are of particular concern to them to the attention of the committee.

The immensity of the job is a staggering undertaking. But the men in industry who built up the nation's war production and surpluses needed by our armed forces, will figure ways to dispose of or utilize the production capacity acquired by the government in such a manner as to not cripple or destroy private activity, both large and small, in the days of peace to come.

This committee should have the hearty and selfless cooperation of every section of the country, for on the soundness of its planning will depend much of the future employment and prosperity in this country.

Police Power Subsidy

Doubling the number of ration points required to buy a pound of butter, and the recent freezing of fluid milk sales in parts of the country, bring the people "face to face with the stark reality that violation of the principles of supply and demand, coupled with rationing of relatively low-priced commodities, leads to scarcity," said Fred H. Sauerker, President of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association.

"Instead of following the simple and natural course of adequate pricing to obtain adequate production (this was done in industries producing ships, planes, tanks, munitions, etc.) the government has chosen the hard way of attempting to freeze prices, freeze the free movement of producers from one outlet to another, and to substitute various types of subsidies to give the producer partial compensation under the terms and conditions which inhibit their freedom."

Turn Loose The Wildcats

The people of the United States are being constantly told by Washington officials that they must get along with less and less gasoline, fuel oil, etc. For months experts in the oil industry have shown official Washington that our oil reserves are being used much more rapidly than new reserves are being discovered, because official Washington, in the face of rising costs of production, refuses to grant crude oil price increases sufficient to encourage wildcating for new oil supplies to replace dwindling reserves.

Commenting on the seriousness of the situation, the National Petroleum News says: "The need for oil is so critical that there should be a crusading campaign to discover and produce fresh supplies. The Administration is calling upon the people to crusade for rubber, to save their fats, to bring in scrap iron, to provide for transfusions. All these are futile if there isn't enough oil to carry on the war. A supply barely sufficient for military needs is of no value if essential civilian needs are not taken care of, and there is a serious question whether we are not already cutting too far into essential civilian needs. It isn't a question of how much it costs to produce oil, it is a question of how to get a maximum number of wildcatters to risk the greatest amount of money in even the most fool places in the country to find oil."

And that is horse sense for the regulators to consider. What good are regulators and price-fixers if their policies leave us with nothing to regulate or nothing to buy?

Recognition At Last

War has one virtue. It reawakens a people's sense of values. For example, in peace-time everyone takes the local newspaper pretty much for granted. Its value to the community and to the ideals of freedom which the editor symbolizes with every opinion he expresses is almost wholly lost to sight.

In ordinary times the editor is painfully reminded of the arbitrary value placed on his services. Advertising is hard to obtain. When it is obtained it is strictly on a basis of getting so many customers for so-and-so's gadget. Any advertising manager who bought space in newspapers with the partial objective of encouraging a free press and free enterprise would, a few years ago, have been looked upon as light-headed by his colleagues.

But today circumstances have changed. The nation is at war. It is at war to restore freedom to other nations and to perpetuate it in this country. Our people have had abundant opportunity to contemplate the horror of nations where freedom is dead.

Our business men, all of us, have observed that in those nations disappearance of personal liberty was accompanied by the disappearance of the virulent free thinking and free speaking editor. After the disappearance of the editor came the iron hand of dictatorship. It is not surprising that we begin to look upto the editor and the free press he represents as something to be preserved at all costs in this country.

Industry realizes at last that without our free press

there could be no free enterprise. Industry realizes now that if it wants to do business at the same old stand after the war, it will have to first help preserve a system of government that will let private enterprise live. War has reawakened industry to the value of the editor. Its representatives have discovered that the American press renders a service far beyond selling a few yards of Blank Company's cheesecloth. They are finding out that this latter service—the keeping alive of freedom—cannot be measured in dollars and cents, or bought by the inch.

Town And Farm In Wartime

To hold flour and bread prices at present levels, the Office of Economic Stabilization has implemented a subsidy program that will enable wheat farmers to price as high as parity prices for wheat—should the market go that high—and at the same time sell flour for no more than parity prices. With this aid and subsidy, the Office of Economic Stabilization says, it would be necessary to increase present ceilings on flour, which in turn would force an increase in bread prices.

No Price In Butter
Butter is available for civilian use will not increase during the next few months, although the federal government has discontinued all purchases of the commodity until April, according to WPA. Current production of butter averages about 16 pounds a year per person, or about half a pound less than in pre-war years. Of this 3 1/2 pounds are being used to combat forced and open market hoarding, approximately 12 1/2 pounds per capita for civilian consumption. Up to 5 million pounds of butter will be released to hospitals from the stock held by the government for the use of the Distribution Administration. The butter is supplied through March and ration coupons will be required.

OPA Authority Upheld
Authority of OPA to fix prices in agriculture and commerce as a result of violations of rationing regulations was upheld in a recent decision by Federal Judge Archibald Lovett of Georgia. Judge Lovett ruled that OPA does have the authority, in the Second War Powers Act, to issue price extension orders and dismissed the complaint filed by a gas dealer who had been suspended from dealing in gasoline for 90 days.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's really a great editorial you just read to us, Judge. Where did you say it appeared?"

"In 'The Stars and Stripes'... the newspaper of the U.S. Armed Forces in Europe. Kind of makes you think back to something to think about, doesn't it, Bill?"

"It certainly does, Judge. Particularly the last paragraph. Would you mind reading that again?"

"Glad to, Bill. It says, 'We can remember the days of prohibition, when moonshine whisky made quick fortunes for bootleggers, crooked politicians and dishonest police officials. As a result, we claim we know what we want to do to end the moonshine and feel that at least one of the first lines of defense is initiating further legislation liquor control.'"

"Out of fairness to our boys over there fighting, Judge, how could we disobey such a wish?"

Tobias, Ascar Homolka, Gene Lockhart and Helmut Dantine, the story is breathtaking in its thrilling action, which makes this picture the finest of war to come out of Hollywood in some time.

Lupe Velez and Leon Errol are back again, and will be with us this Tuesday-Wednesday in a new comedy of riots under the title "Mexican Spitfire's Sweet Evil." The two stars are again seen as Uncle Matt and Lord Epping and they have added some new twists to his and Lord Epping and they have makes this picture a veritable

"A Stamp in Every Stocking" that's what the Treasury Department is asking for Christmas. To encourage the giving of war stamps, many ideas for utilizing them in gifts and decorations have been suggested: war stamps attached to a celluloid frame containing a small gift; war stamp mounted presents; a tiny Santa Claus holding stamps; small Christmas stockings containing stamps; a baby's rattle with stamp tied on with ribbons; and children's toys, with stamp attached. The stamp may also be used as decoration on wreaths, fastened to handles, and on Christmas cards.

were in charge of the serving committee; Mrs. Florence Kuhn, Miss Johnnie Davis, Mrs. Nola Dragon and Miss Mary Bellole of Pahokee.

down just off my right wing. I've seen this one was moving faster than anything I have seen yet. My gunner, Scott, sent one limping away with a few ragged edges and smoking engine. I don't think it crashed though.

Other out of town members present were Mrs. Helen Gist, Mrs. Grace Peterson, Mrs. Leslie Williams, Mrs. E. K. Bing, Mrs. Sammie Cario, Ga., Mrs. Esther Launer, Mrs. Edith Murray and Mrs. Mary Scott.

soil production. The Bureau of Plant Industry has arranged a six month leave of absence from the University of Missouri for Doctor J. M. Poehlman, a plant breeder, who will cooperate with the local Experiment Station in the selection of higher yielding oats.

While the annual yield of corn is greater here than in any other section of the United States, and the high market is protected by the cost of shipping from the more northern states, there are several hazards with the prospective grower of corn should consider before planting a substantial acreage. Blackbirds and crows can "take" a field after emerging of the young plants. The grower can plant sufficiently early in the Spring and Fall when most of the birds are out of the Everglades, or he can post armed guards. Some growers claim to avoid damage by planting corn four inches apart.

The bud-worms are serious in some seasons. Although a fast growing plant of a variety like Big Joe or Turpan can ordinarily grow faster than the bud-worms can destroy it, one or two lead arsenate sprays are advisable.

Drying and storage of the harvested corn are problems of paramount importance. In some seasons the corn must be picked while its moisture content is above that required for safe storage. Beets can be dried artificially or stored in thin layers where drying can occur naturally. Well-ventilated storage buildings of galvanized sheeting will absorb much heat and so speed up drying. Before storage, the corn should be dried in a tight bin and treated with carbaryl disodium for twenty-four hours to kill weevils.

KOK-SAGHZY OR RUBER

works with the cooperation of W. B. Granger and his assistant Cliff Green, established a Kok-saghyz nursery from which various kinds in the North were supplied a total of three hundred thousand plants. Because Kok-saghyz can be "vernalisized" or stored wet for two weeks at near freezing temperatures before planting, the five acre nursery would not have been possible without the cooperation of Mrs. Mary Mergenthaler who donated the space for the rearing of seed in the precooling plant at her packing plant.

After the Eastern Regional Research Laboratory, located at Philadelphia, Pa., reported that tests on several hundred bushels of pounds of Kok-saghyz roots from the Everglades Experiment Station revealed more rubber than had been produced in any other region, a few Federal Bureaus have located investigators in the region to determine the reasons. Mr. G. F. Erambent of the Forest Service has arranged to grow twenty acres of Kok-saghyz on land belonging to E. M. Van Landingham. Mr. Erambent will investigate the possibility of using minnows for large-scale production.
